Nicaragua lies in the heart of the Central America coffee growing industry, known for producing incredible organic, shade-grown coffees. Only in recent years has Nicaraguan coffee been allowed to be imported to the United States. During the Reagan Administration, Nicaraguan coffee was banned from import into the States due to civil war and political turbulence. Since the 2000's, Nicaraguan coffee farms have slowly been taken back over by local families and great strides have been made to bring high quality coffee back to the States!

We are excited to have this certified-organic Nicaraguan coffee in house!
